 Participation in the 63rd ISI World Statistics Congress (Virtual)

The 63rd World Statistical Congress, organized by the International Statistical Institute (ISI), was held virtually from July 12 to 16. The conference has been held in various countries almost every two years since 1887. However, due to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, this year was the first time that the conference was held entirely virtually.

About 1,000 participants from national statistical offices, universities, the United Nations Statistics Division (UNSD), and other organizations from around the world attended, and many sessions were held. Four members from the Statistics Bureau of Japan participated in sessions such as "Official Statistics in the Changing World of Data Science" and "Building Statistical Registers in Countries with No Administrative Population Registers".

 Statistics Learning Seminar for Children

The Statistics Bureau of Japan organized the "Statistics Academy for Kids 2021" on August 20 and 22. It was a virtual seminar using Zoom for 5th and 6th-grader elementary school students.

The seminar provided children with an opportunity to learn the basics of how statistics can be used to solve social problems, using various events in their daily lives as subjects. It was held in Japanese and a total of about 60 children throughout Japan and abroad participated in the seminar over the two days.
