5. Areas of Cambodia, Province, and Commune

The area of Cambodia is about 180,000 km²: about a half of Japan. The average area of provinces is almost the same as that of prefectures in Japan. And the average area of communes is about 112km². Specially, that of communes in Phnom Penh is about 5km².

6. Statistics on the Maps

Statistics on the maps are as of 3 March 1998. On the other hand, the administrative boundaries on the maps are as of 3 March 2007. Therefore, these 2 kinds of data were matched by commune code. Since there were few changes from 1998 to 2007 in commune boundaries, the number of un-matched communes were less than or equal to 2 in each province. In order to complement the data of the un-matched communes, the data of the previous or next commune code were employed.
