<News Highlights>

* The National Survey of Family Income and Expenditure 2019

The Statistics Bureau of Japan (SBJ) is conducting the National Survey of Family Income and Expenditure 2019 from October through November in 2019. The purpose of this survey is to comprehensively grasp the actual situation of income, expenditure, assets, and liabilities in households, and to clarify the distribution of household income and the level and structure of expenditure nationally and regionally.

The results of the survey are expected to be utilized by national and local governments for important administrative policies such as examination of the amounts of national and welfare pensions, and examination of standards for calculating the nursing insurance premium.

The results of the 2019 survey will be released after November 2020.
